Pitt Med Professionalism Accolade

CONGRATULATIONS!

Noah Feder
MS1 Student

Noah's repeated graciousness and ease had the lovely effect of turning a negative situation to a positive that left all of us in the OMED office filled with delight.

Noah was scheduled for a 9AM exam ahead of a flight to NY to see his family. One technical problem after another plus the natural learning curve of newer personnel meant that it took nearly an hour and a half get Noah's exam started. Throughout this prolonged period, Noah kept introducing lightness and warmth. Most thoughtfully, he continuously conveyed a sense of professional respect for OMED personnel.

I think we found Noah's secret superpower - the ability to create space for his team to do their best work in a situation where things are going wrong. How wonderful!

University of Pittsburgh | Office of the Learning Environment | School of Medicine

Submitted by a Faculty Member Dermatology – 3RC, Spring 2024

www.ole.pitt.edu/PAIR