Pitt Med Professionalism Accolade

CONGRATULATIONS!

Andrew “Drew” Klein, MD

Faculty
Department of Medicine
Division of General Internal Medicine

There are certain people you get to work with during your path of medical training who are especially good at what they do, as a mentor, teacher, and clinician, and it speaks to not only their intelligence and hard work but of the wisdom and ongoing reflection which informs their vocational posture. Dr. Klein is one of the strongest attending physicians I have had the pleasure of working with. His enthusiasm and dedication for teaching and for personalized patient care during my AI was exemplary and inspirational; he clearly cares and his passion for his work shines refreshingly bright. I really appreciated how much attention he gave while listening to my presentations, reading my notes, and taking the time to get to know me as a person. He pushed me to come to decisions at patient-care crossroads and also encouraged me to be gracious with myself when it came to self-made goals for progress. I was really impressed with how he was both his patients' greatest advocates while also not micromanaging his team. Overall, I appreciated how Dr. Klein treated me with great respect, dignity, and his gentle but firm guiding instruction. He created an exceptional learning environment and will serve as a model for the physician I hope to become.

Submitted by a Medical Student
Internal Medicine Acting Internship, Spring 2024

University of Pittsburgh® | Office of the Learning Environment
School of Medicine

www.ole.pitt.edu/PAIR