University of Pittsburgh | Office of the Learning Environment School of Medicine

PITT MED PROFESSIONALISM ACCOLADE

SEAN LEE

MS1 Student

"Sean, time and again, reminds me of what medicine is about. When emotions get high during difficult conversations, in the midst of stress before each summative, Sean approaches every interaction with quiet kindness and curiosity. He sees beyond a person's speech and actions, and helps his fellow medical students in the best way that he can. He never puts himself first and finds genuine pleasure in providing service to others, even in situations when he is tired. When people are stressed, he uses his wit and humor to remind other students why we are here--to remain curious about the human body and the patient who lives in it--and encourages people along... He really is one of the best discoveries I have made in Pitt Med."

Submitted by a Medical Student
Patient, Physician, & Society 3, Spring 2026