

Pitt Med Professionalism Accolade

CONGRATULATIONS!

Alyson Lee

MS2 Student

Aly is one of the kindest people at Pitt Med. Her personality shines through her gentle humanism, through her positive interactions with others, through her genuine smile and laughter, and notably through her writing. She is a co-coordinator for Lit Med, the new literature in medicine group, which has been an undoubtedly positive contribution to the Pitt Med learning environment. Her unique ability to deeply and introspectively dissect and analyze issues facing patients in her community and globally and her special innovative thinking skills when considering a problem will be invaluable attributes for when she is caring for her own patients. She is a staunch advocate and is unafraid to share her difficult and also incredible life experiences and how they have shaped her way of viewing the world. I am lucky to have Aly as a colleague and a friend, and all of Pitt Med should have their eyes on her, given what I know she will be able to accomplish in the future. I'm looking forward to watching her continue to shine.

--Submitted by a medical student Fall 2023

University of Pittsburgh

Office of the Learning
Environment
School of Medicine

www.ole.pitt.edu/PAIR